Fair Information Practices

The Fair Information Practices Principles form the backbone of privacy law in the United States and the concepts they include have played a significant role in the development of data protection laws around the globe. Understanding the Fair Information Practice Principles and how they should be implemented is critical to comply with the various privacy laws that protect personal information.

To be compliant with Fair Information Practices we will take the following responsive action, should data breach occur:

- We will notify the users via email within 14 working days of discovering the breach.
- We will notify the users via in-site notification within 72 hours of discovering the breach.

We also agree to the Individual Redress Principle, which requires that individuals have the prerogative to pursue legally enforceable rights against data collectors and processors who fail to adhere to the law. This principle requires not only that individuals have enforceable rights against data users, but also that individuals have recourse to courts or a government agency to investigate and/or prosecute non-compliance by data processors.
